A thoroughly enjoyable four minutes plus was spent today listening to the latest single by Joey Curtin and utilising one of the best Alto Saxophone players around in one Joseph L Young on her latest offering Mulberry Jam.

This lively little number seems to create a dance all of its own, as both participants create a lush and symbiotic relationship with their respective instrumentation. Curtin's driving piano at times creating a slight Beatles feel, with a little smooth jazz ethic into the mix as well.

This has to be one of the most charming singles I have heard this year and one that I am very certain will be very much loved, especially by those who have a keen desire to sample something as beautiful as Mulberry Jam to lift their spirits. This is completely recommended indeed.
