Over the years, quality of excellence has been the watch word for any Kerani release, and on this latest single for the holiday season entitled A Christmas Wish, she has brought us a final musical present to place under the tree, that once opened will sit proudly on top of it, like the shining radiant star that she most assuredly is.

The spoken word of the child, the Vangelis ethic, the colourful grand soundscape, the sweeping neo classical brilliance of this composition, it is without doubt the perfect end to an ultra-creative year for the artist.

The soft and gentle but emotive build and progression of this track is something to utterly enjoy, and I can see this one being a huge fan favourite over the next few weeks without doubt. A very happy Christmas Kerani.
