The ambience that resides within this latest single by Louis Colaiannia is utterly delectable, the descriptive nuances doubly so. Lonely Bird the latest offering by the artist, is a single born out of desire to create a little beauty for a world in chaos at the moment.

Listening to this inspiring offering is like being released into the skies above, being able to break free and soar away from the madness. The string accompaniment is so delicate, but precise, and the textured performance by Colaiannia on piano is really something to admire.

In my view the artist has created something here that is transcendent and gloriously artistic, and one to certainly recommend.
