In these times of trouble, our music helps us through, it allows us to reach areas of peace that have previously been denied to us, a fine example of music that helps us heal is this incredible new single by Nipazen called New World, perhaps something we all wish for now more than ever.

The build and construction of this multi instrumental moment of genius is quite breath taking, a steady narration on piano leads us by the hand through the composition, and New World begins to develop with a steady percussive beat, one that gives us hope and brings to the table of instrumental music, a feast of tone and style that is so rare, but in the case of Nipazen, a gourmet meal of an arrangement can be sampled and enjoy to the full, this is one very recommended composition indeed.
